

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

(By Wilfrid Eggleston)

Ottawa, August 25th.—The first thing the cabinet did when the ministers had returned from overseas was to deal with the drought and fodder situation in western Canada.

Final arrangements are still to be completed and the problem will need continuous attention until next summer. But meantime the following assistance appears to be likely.

Free shipment of feed from areas where there is a surplus, to the drought areas. The railways will reduce their rates one-third and the federal government pay the remainder.

Free movement of cattle from the drought areas to others where feed is plentiful, within the provinces.

The Provincial and federal governments are likely to find it necessary to buy up all surplus hay, oats, barley and greenfeed in Alberta and Saskatchewan, to prevent speculation and export to the United States (or needed fodder).

Reduced rates on cattle moving eastward. A bonus of five dollars per head to eastern farmers and ranchers for keeping western cattle at least two months.

Payment by the big packing houses of one dollar per hundred pounds (about double the market quotation) for cows and calves for federal government and export sale; with the provision that any loss on the transaction will be absorbed by the federal government, and any profit distributed proportionately among the farmers and ranchers supplying these animals. It is hoped to take 100,000 head off the market in this way.

Give Work Where Possible
The problem of farm relief in the drought-stricken areas was also faced. Wherever it is possible it is proposed to give work to farmers in relief areas, but the openings for that sort of thing are confined to adjacent rural work and water conservation projects. Possibilities of the former have been fairly well exhausted in the recurrent dry areas, and the latter is a limited thing. Not more than $200,000 at the most can be spent this fall on dams and dig-outs.

A great deal of the distress in the west this year is in a district which has had to be helped once or often in the past six years, and the machinery can readily be set to work with it. It will be necessary for Ottawa to increase substantially the monthly "grants-in-aid" of the two most seriously stricken provinces, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

During last winter, Saskatchewan was getting $250,000 a month and Alberta $175,000. On the last of April these amounts were reduced 15 per cent, and later there was another small reduction. Now they are to be stepped up again. Saskatchewan came down with an ambitious program calling for the total expenditure of $125,000,000 and Alberta a similar idea. Both will be looked after, but the grants will probably be a little shy of original requests. The federal government is being run in a bit more freely than last year, but once again, nevertheless, they are heading into a heavy deficit. That "balanced budget" is still quite a way off.

Promising British Market
Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, came back from the United Kingdom impressed with the possibilities of the market over there. He goes after it. He thinks the annual shipment of 100,000 live cattle should not be difficult. The British market deserves more study, and Canadian products deserve more advertisement. He has a vote of $500,000 which he can use toward this end, and a small staff will probably be set up over there soon, responsible to the Minister of Agriculture here, to push this affair.

The National Employment Commission is looking into the housing question; and is trying to solve the financial end, admitted to be the stumbling block to progress. The high cost of money and the consequent high rents have made it unsound for builders and owners to go ahead. If a housing scheme could be launched with money at little more than the quotation on six-month government bonds (say 3 1/2 per cent) it would be commercially profitable, and the houses could be rented at prices within the reach of the average working man, it is believed. Anyway, the commission is going to take a crack at this end. Probably the government will in the long run have to come to the rescue, but private enterprise is

WEDDINGS

KOREK - EMES

A pretty wedding of interest to many friends in both southern and northern Alberta was solemnized at St. Ignace's church, Medicine Hat, on Monday morning at 11 o'clock, when Gladys Hays, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Emes, of Medicine Hat, became the bride of Mr. Walter Korek, youngest son of Mrs. Frank Korek, and the late Mr. Korek of Calgary. The Rev. Mr. Hammett, vicar of St. Ignace, performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was unattended, was given in marriage by her father. She looked lovely in a dolphin blue frock of old lace with velvet train to match, and carried a bouquet of sweetest roses.

Immediately after the ceremony, breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The living room was tastefully decorated for the occasion with a profusion of gladioli and streamers which formed a charming background for the reception.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. Mr. Hammett, to which the bridegroom replied.

Mrs. G. E. Hanson poured tea and Mr. Tom Thorne dealt the coffee. The bridesmaids were Miss Billie and Miss Marion Taylor served.

The bridal couple left early in the afternoon by motor for Banff, Red Deer and other mountain resorts where a short honeymoon will be spent. The bride chose for traveling a smart three-piece blue ensemble with grey accessories.

On their return they will reside in Black Diamond where the bridegroom is superintendent of Turner Valley schools. Both the bride and bridegroom taught in school in Turner Valley last year, and are well known in educational circles.

STREAMLINE TRAIN ON NORTH R? ?

It was rumored in Calgary Tuesday that after one of the new streamline trains built by the C. P. R. has completed its exhibition tour to Vancouver, it would be sent to the west. The company intends putting the train in service between Calgary and Edmonton on a much faster schedule than any other now in effect between Edmonton and Calgary. It will be the first of its kind to operate in Western Canada.

THE WORLD'S LARGEST STREAM-LINER

LOCOMOTIVE No. 6400 of the Canadian National Railway, the largest streamlined steam locomotive in the world and Canada's first streamlined locomotive. The streamlined locomotive has been designed by the National System for fast runs. No. 6400 is the first of five locomotives built to special streamlined design evolved after exhaustive tests by the National Research Council at Ottawa and officers of the Motive Power Department of the Canadian National Railway.

front which extends to just above the rail, the smokestack is bell shaped and present both within the streamlined body and the array of pipes and domes found on the ordinary locomotive. The aerodynamic arrangement is arranged to perform a disappearing act, behind a steel door, when not in use.

The new locomotives also feature a new semi-disc type of wheel, stronger and more lasting than the familiar spoked type so long used by engine builders.

A new color design, black, green and blue-grey planished steel, with bronze accents on the running board and the Canadian National crest in gold on red background give the new locomotive a pleasing as well as striking effect.

Photographs show the first of the new engines during her inspection by the Canadian National Railway and Montreal Locomotive Works officials.

Where I sit by the sea, no human sound
"Come near. As far as eyes can reach,
No hand of man has changed a stone
or tree,
Or built a house or walled up any shore.
Before me in the early evening light
The ocean flashes up! Fire from clouds
Reflecting sunset colors in the east!
On either side, dark points of land
thin out,
Faintly and darkening to night.
And in the background trees of
spruce and fir
Rise fragrant to the summit of a spur.

Here now no sail blows past, no curl
of smoke,
No merchantman, no barge, no coasting ship.
The trade has turned its back upon
the sea,
On favored days, now, pleasure craft
alone,
Or solitary fishermen may pass.
Where once the bay stood forested with masts.

Now all the sons of mariners are gone
To other callings. While my brothers spend
Their days in city buildings and their nights
Away from this cool stillness and the peace
Of lonely shores, forever I return
To these brown rocks and hollow
salt with foam;
To this forgotten harbor I come home.

DROUGHT PROBLEMS

Among the most vital problems facing our legislators of today, both Provincial and Federal is that of the drought stricken areas of Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan. What is the most practical plan to combat this dire situation, and just how extensive should the salvaging process be, is taxing the brains of some of our best men.

Hon. Justice Ewing is directing a Provincial commission whose work it is to learn the amount of produce on irrigated lands, the cost of water and its relation to prices of farm products and the return from unwatered farms.

Finance Minister Charles Dunning announced in Ottawa Monday that the problem is a national one and is recognized as such by the Dominion Government.

The Finance Minister announced that agreements were being completed whereby, with federal provincial co-operation, lands in the dried out areas would be immediately salvaged, relief on a standard scale would be provided those in the affected areas, aid of the Canadian Red Cross Society would be sought in rehabilitating farms in respect to equipment and exhausted household equipment, and the work of moving families to good soil areas would be continued.

"At least 200,000 people in the dried out areas are deprived of even the vestige of means of livelihood," Mr. Dunning said, "and in a considerable part of this area the same conditions have existed for periods of from four to eight years."

"It has been demonstrated to our satisfaction that municipal and provincial organizations have found this problem quite beyond their capacity to deal with. That is the only reason we are coming into the picture and, in fairness to the rest of Canada, that is the only circumstance that that would justify our action."

Plans for creating artificial lakes, damming up and conserving water, now wanted are among the plans to be put into effect.

"This attitude on the part of the Federal Government should be sufficient to end the half baked ideas of any of those in our misguiding reasoning, talk sessions."

SCHOOL DAYS

"School Days! School Days! Dear old Golden Rule Days Reading and Writing and 'Rithmetic Touched to the tune of the Hickory stick."

Tuesday next from Victoria to Halifax the majority of Canada's schools will be opening their doors for the Fall term of 1936. To many it will be a continuing in higher grades of work, commenced in previous years. To a large number of others it will be their first day at school and a new world opening up a vista that stretches on and on through the 1937 years ahead.

And the mother of wee Johnny or Mary sees her young offspring to school with a reproached tear and a lump in her throat yet none the less realizing it is part of the onward march of progress that she would not stay or shirk. And to the students entering the High School or the University come similar tremors of hope, excitement and problems to be faced as they enter the threshold of their higher steps of learning.

The three R's—reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic are to abide honors now with education gained by means of "enterprises." Of this new method one hears varying opinions, some favorable, some otherwise. Like all new things it must be tested to prove its value, and as time alone will give the answer to the wisdom of this project. The Hickory Stick that in days of yore laid such undisputed sway in many a school room has now largely given way to the plan of rule by amiable and appeal to the pure sense of fair play or the Golden Rule and despite the admonition that "You spare the rod you spoil the child" we freely confess we like best to know the child whose sense of honor will govern his actions, rather than the "four of the Hickory Stick."

To students, all Freshmen and Seniors in Public Schools, High Schools and Universities and their teachers we wish a year of contentment and the satisfaction that comes from the knowledge of progress made and obstacles overcome.

TODAY

Did you ever pause to think—just a wonderful word—Today? Just what possibilities it holds? What opportunities? Today—a word that suggests hope and promise and an unlimited achievement; no vain regrets of the past, no fearful forebodings for the future, but today, something that comes to us all, rich and poor alike. What are we each of us going to do with it? All the wishing, hoping, longing won't make it pass one whit faster, or flinger one moment longer.

Do you remember where Carnegie said "So here hath been dawning another blue day. Think, with thou get it slip no-less away," and Mary Baker Eddy opens her book Science and Health with these arresting words "To those leaning on the sustaining minute, today is his with blessing. Let us take hold of this idea of today; unfortunately much of today has to pass in routine occupations, and for many of the feminine members of the human family it is spent in the "daily round, the common task," etc. Nevertheless, let us endeavor to make today count either in our own lives or in someone else's and let us try to leave some concrete or tangible evidence of advancement or development and at the end of the day let us say—

Count that day lost,
Whose lot depending on
Sera from thy hand,
No worthy action done.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Christian Science Churches next Sunday, the subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Christ Jesus." The following is one of the Scriptural quotations contained in the Lesson-Sermon: "No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him" (John 1:18). One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is as follows (page 28): "The Christ was the Spirit which Jesus implied in his own statements; I am the way, the truth, and the life; I am the Father and the Son." This Christ, of divinity of the man Jesus, was his divine nature, the godliness which animated him."

THE STANDARD

A CORRECTION

Owing to a report that a Premier Division had advised everyone in the Province to cooperate with the Social Credit forces in the registration for dividends, we have been requested to publish the following letter.

Editor, The Western Farm Leader.
The newspaper leading to a report of an address recently delivered by me at the U. P. A. Convention at Gooseberry Lake, has apparently caused considerable discussion among U. P. A. members and others, as the impression was left that I had recommended full cooperation with the present Government in all its policies.

Those who heard the address will know that it was entirely non-partisan. No word was spoken either for or against the Government or any other political party or organization. Neither did I discuss the question of whether the U. P. A. should stay in or keep out of politics.

In one part of my address I did point out two or three immediate problems arising out of the wide crop failure this year—the feed problem, seed grain and debt problems. I stated that these were so serious as to demand the best thought of the Province and every one should be ready to approach these immediate problems with an absence of political prejudice and to the extent possible or permitted, be prepared to cooperate with the Government in their solution.

No wider meaning was intended or could be taken from anything said in my address.

LITTLE FAITH

The old negro parson called his flock together during a drought period to pray for rain.

Entering the pulpit he gazed upon his congregation.

"De faith of you niggers is deplorable," he began, "here we are gathered together to ask de Lord to send us rain, and not one of you has brought an umbrella."
